IELTS test types

IELTS Academic

For the students who are wanting to study in an English language based institution or university. This test measures your capability to study in English, and features the vocabularies familiar to an academic scenario.

IELTS General Training

For those who want to study in English below degree level or want to migrate to countries like Canada, Australia, New Zealand or the UK. This test features everyday language skills required in social or workplace scenarios.

(Both versions provide a valid and accurate assessment of the four language skills: listening, reading, writing and speaking.)

IELTS characteristics

IELTS Academic and IELTS General Training are designed to cover the full range of ability from non-user to expert user. The Academic version is for test takers who want to study at tertiary level in an English-speaking country or seek professional registration. The General Training version is for test takers who want to work, train, study at a secondary school or migrate to an English-speaking country.

The difference between the Academic and General Training versions is the content, context and purpose of the tasks. All other features, such as timing allocation, length of written responses and reporting of scores, are the same.

IELTS tests the ability to listen, read, write and speak in English.

The speaking module is a key component of IELTS. It is conducted in the form of a one-to-one interview with an examiner. The examiner assesses the test taker as he or she is speaking. The speaking session is also recorded for monitoring and for re-marking in case of an appeal against the score given.

IELTS is developed by experts at Cambridge English Language Assesment with input from item writers from around the world. Teams are located in the USA, Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, Canada and other English-speaking nations.

Band scores are used for each language sub-skill (Listening, Reading, Writing, and Speaking). The Band Scale ranges from 0 ("Did not attempt the test") to 9 ("Expert User").

Study in New Zealand

With all 8 of its universities ranked in the top 100 positions according to the QS World University Rankings in 2021, New Zealand is a heavenly place full of quality institutions and a peaceful environment.

Why New Zealand?

An island county in the southwestern Pacific Ocean that consists of two main landmasses and over 700 smaller islands, New Zealand is a highly civilized and developed country with a wide array of things to be enjoyed. From unique wildlife to a rich multi-cultural life experience this country provides a wide array of things to cherish and learn from.

Thanks to its bountiful natural beauty and the availability of its universities New Zealand is one of the most sought after destinations for international students.

Despite their easily available nature, the universities in New Zealand do not compromise when it comes to quality of education. With highly ranked universities and innovative learning methods New Zealand is a provider of world-class education.

Education System and Courses Available

With five types of government-owned tertiary institutions in universities, colleges, polytechnics, specialist colleges and wananga (publicly-owned tertiary institution that provides education in a local Maori cultural context) the education is centrally managed by New Zealand Qualifications Authority (NZQA) insuring that the educational degrees meet the international standard. Rest assured all 8 universities in New Zealand are top-notch government funded universities with an abundance of modern facilities and resources at their disposal.

In addition, the government has provided a wide range of courses across the various education levels innovatively taught and designed for in-depth learning.

Some of the most popular courses are,

- Medicine and health care
- Hospitality
- Engineering
- Business studies and management
- IT and computer science
- Animation

Cost Of Education in New Zealand

Studying in New Zealand is very affordable in comparison to other countries, the costs vary depending on the course but even the most expensive ones are fairly priced. Furthermore, you can also take advantage of the plethora of scholarships offered by the government which sometimes cover full tuition fees.

While heavily dependent on the course an international undergraduate student's expected expenditure is between 20,000 to 35,000 NZ$ with prices climbing up to 75,000N Z$ in case of courses like medicine and veterinary science.

Annual price estimations of some courses

- Doctoral degree : 7,000 to 9,000 NZ$
- Bachelor undergraduate degree : 20,000 to 30,000 NZ$
- Master's degree : 20,000 to 37,000 NZ$
- Master of Business Administration : 31,000 to 55,000 NZ$

Accommodation Cost and Options

Across the various cities like Auckland, Christchurch, Wellington, Hamilton, Tauranga, Dunedin and others you can find that the education institutes are well distributed along with diverse weather patterns. Most universities provide affordable on-campus accommodation known as the Halls of Residence to international students which need to be applied separately and prior to your arrival in order to book a slot.

Regular off-campus accommodations like apartments, homestay, hostels, shared and private flats are available in all cities leaving only the price and climate to consider for the students. With a predominantly temperate maritime (type of oceanic climate with generally mild summers and cool but not cold winters) climate New Zealand is pleasant to live throughout the year but some specific features like the lack of rainfall in Christchurch, the colder southern regions and Wellington being the wettest city in New Zealand can sway student's decisions. After covering your tuition, insurance, visa and travel fees it is mandatory for international students to show proof of at least 15,000 NZ$ for a year or 1,250 NZ$ for a month to cover living and other daily expenses.

Average price of various accommodation options on a weekly basis

- On-campus (Halls of residence) : 200 to 600 NZ$
- Private flat : 200 NZ$
- Shared flat : 120 NZ$

Some of the most common living expenses and their weekly approximate costs

- Food and beverages : 140 NZ$
- Transport : 80 NZ$
- Clothing : 20 NZ$
- Communication : 25 NZ$

Language Proficiency

Proof of English Language proficiency is a requirement to study in New Zealand and it is advised that students take one of the reputed International English tests like IELTS, TOFEL or PTE. Although, English is the widely spoken language in New Zealand the unique accent of the local people might take some time getting used to.

New Zealand Visa Requirements

In order to study full time course in New Zealand you will need a student visa but in case of a course shorter than 3 months students can study with just a visit Visa. While the entire process can be simplified with the guidance of experts here are some requirements.

- Proof of proficiency in English language
- A valid passport and photograph in requested format.
- Offer letter and Letter of acceptance from a New Zealand Qualifications Committee approved education provider.
- Visa application fee payment
